

CHINESE FEAR A REVOLUTION

Intense Feeling On The Part Of Inhabitants
May Bring About A Rebellion.

ALL FOREIGNERS ARE IN DANGER

Country Seems To Be Undermined With A Spirit Of Rebellion Needing But A Leader To Incite
It To War.

Peking, Feb. 3.—Undoubtedly all China is at a white heat of political discussion. Such intense feeling as prevails on the part of the inhabitants has seldom been seen before and makes any result possible. A local outbreak may precipitate general hostilities. No organized movement against foreigners is to be discovered, except the American boycott, but the national spirit is growing stronger, and the peculiar status of foreigners in China affords many points of friction.

The court has every inducement to preserve friendliness with the legations. The dowager empress' supporters freely discuss the possibility that she may be driven by revolution to seek shelter within the walls of the foreign legations.

The foreign newspapers published at Shanghai, Hong Kong, and Tientsin continue to dwell with apprehension upon anti-foreign trouble, but Peking gives no sign of a hostile feeling toward foreigners.

The relations between the court and the legations are in no way changed. The open agitation against foreigners is confined to central and southern China, and it is anticipated that troubles, if they occur, will be limited to those sections as "boxerism" was limited to the north. Those whose predictions would carry greatest weight, however, are most reluctant to express opinions.

Radicals Are Impatient.
Discontent with the government is outspoken among young and progressive Chinese as an outgrowth of opposition to foreign encroachment. The sentiment is too impatient to give the empress' attempts at reforms the trial of time, but demand that the government shall accomplish immediately all that it has taken Japan a third of a century to achieve.

The stability of the present regime rests on insecure foundations. The death of Yuan Shi Kai would remove the strongest prop to the throne. Local newspapers and tea-house gossip describe his army as infested with anti-dynastic secret societies, but the reports are difficult to verify.

Yuan Shi Kai, however, is frequently threatened with assassination, and extraordinary precautions are taken to protect him. He is strongly guarded day and night. The ever-present menace to order is the specter of death overtaking the dowager empress and thereby leaving the emperor, who fails to command the confidence of the people and without help surrounded by ambitious, intriguing officials with a restless, discontented populace behind them.

Incident Is Significant.

An evidence of the tension existing between the Chinese and foreigners is found in a recent unimportant event which took place in Tien-Tsin on the occasion of the birthday of Emperor William. While Yuan Kai, viceroy of the province of Chi-Li, was passing through the British settlement on his way to make a formal visit to the German officials, one of his outriders was struck by a Chinese policeman employed by the British, enforcing the rule of the road to keep to the left. A scuffle ensued. The viceroy afterward demanded the surrender of the policeman for punishment.

After a meeting of the municipal authorities the British consul general and representatives of Yuan Shi Kai, a full apology was drafted and the policeman was dismissed and handed over to the Chinese officials, who promised leniency.

The viceroy's magistrate, however, immediately ordered that the offender receive a punishment of a thousand strokes with the bamboo which is frequently fatal; and three months' penal servitude.

Foreign opinion here insists that the viceroy's demand for the surrender and the extremity of the punishment ordered were both deliberately intended to impress foreigners with a sense of the Chinese authority. British officials are bitterly denounced by foreign residents for surrendering the policeman who was a British employee.

ERECT MONUMENT TO GENERAL GRANT IS SPANISH WAR VETS TO BE PROMOTED NOW

Will Be Unveiled Tomorrow, Seventh Anniversary of Outbreak of Philippine Insurrection.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Portland, Ore., Feb. 3.—Tomorrow, the seventh anniversary of the outbreak of the Philippine insurrection, the date chosen for the unveiling of the handsome monument erected here in honor of the Oregon volunteers who did duty in the Philippines. The monument occupies a commanding site in the heart of the city. It consists of a 20-foot shaft of Vermont granite surmounted by the bronze figure of an American volunteer soldier in action. The figure, which is eight feet high, was modeled by Douglas Tilden, the well-known San Francisco sculptor. Eight granite posts surround the shaft, and on these are engraved the names of the principal engagements in which the Second Oregon regiment participated.

MANY EXHIBITS IN CHICAGO AUTO SHOW

Coliseum Would Not Accommodate
All Entries, and Armory Building
Is Being Used.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Chicago, Ill., Feb. 3.—Chicago's fifth annual automobile show which opened today is one of the biggest and most artistically elaborated exhibitions of the kind ever given. The Coliseum, spacious though it is, was found inadequate for the accommodation of all the exhibits entered and the First Regiment armory, a short distance away, was pressed into service to accommodate the overflow. Every inch of space in both buildings is filled. Everything in the line of horseless vehicle is on display and while many of the exhibits show that foreign models have been copied closely, the show is practically a demonstration of the advance made in the home industry. Ninety-five complete carmakers are represented, equaling the number that had displays at the recent New York exhibitions. The show will be closed tomorrow, but opens again Monday and will continue until next Saturday night. It is conducted by the Chicago Automobile Club and the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers.

BOAT BLOWS UP IN NEW YORK HARBOR

United States Lighter Hudson Is Sent to the Bottom When Fire Reaches Dynamite.

New York, Feb. 3.—Shortly before 2 o'clock Saturday morning the United States lighter Hudson, having on board about 300 pounds of dynamite and which was anchored on the Manhattan side of the Harlem river, almost under the central bridge, took fire. Soon after the fire started two explosions occurred on board. They were slight, however, and apparently did not affect the main cargo. An alarm was sent in and several fire engines and two fireboats responded.

The lighter was anchored directly in the rear of the Manhattan Casino, which was crowded with men and women attending a ball. When the explosions occurred there was a panic in the place. Police reserves were called and finally managed to restore order.

As soon as the fire was discovered the engineer of the lighter ran down into the hold where the dynamite was stored and began to throw the explosive overboard. In all there were 300 pounds on board. He had gotten all but about fifty pounds off the vessel when the fire drove him from the work. The engineer then rushed to the deck, but by this time someone on shore had cut the cables holding the lighter and the vessel was drifting into the stream. It is reported the engineer jumped overboard.

Blazing fiercely, the lighter drifted into midstream, when in about five minutes there was a terrific explosion on board and the vessel sank.

FAIL TO AGREE ON MINE SCALE

Operators And Workers Admit A Great Industrial Upheaval Is Near At Hand.

INVOLVES A HALF MILLION MEN

Union Men Claim Independents Will Join Hands With Organization To Secure Higher Wages In Bituminous Fields.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 3.—The predicted failure of the miners and operators to agree on a wage scale Friday became a fact by the adjournment sine die of the joint conference, and the country is confronted with one of the greatest strikes in its history. The miners claim an organization of more than 400,000 men, and that 135,000 who are unorganized are in sympathy with their demands, and will join in a strike for better wages. There is now, they say, more than $500,000 in the national treasury, $2,697,000 in the district treasuries, and an assessment of $1 a week from this time until April 1, when the suspension will go into effect, will produce $2,480,000 more. These are the men and these are the funds that back them in their demands for an increased wage, and they say they are determined to make the test.

Both Sides Are Defiant.
The convention, which ended in a dissolution of the amicable relations between the miners and operators, was the most sensational in the history of the two organizations. The demand for an increased scale was made in language far from diplomatic, and the refusal came charged with defiance and lacking in courtesy. Every nerve in the great hall was in a high state of tension when a motion was made and carried to adjourn. The operators, through the vote of President Dolan of the Pittsburgh district, claimed their proposition to adopt the present scale had been accepted, but the miners denied Dolan's right to cast the vote of the delegation as a unit, and proceeded at once to impeach him by moving to expel him from the organization. He said he knew what a strike meant to women and children, he was not afraid of a war with the operators, but peace even on the terms they offered was better than war. The matter of expulsion was referred to the Pittsburgh district miners, but not till every man in the Pennsylvania delegation had voted against the settlement to which Dolan had tried to bind them.

Robbins Stirs Mitchell.
F. L. Robbins of Pittsburgh, who was spokesman for the operators, accused the miners in the joint conference of repudiating a fair proposition. He protested against their refusal to allow one district to sign an agreement unless all signed it, declaring that a little section up in Michigan could refuse a settlement and tie up the whole country. Referring to Mr. Mitchell's prosperity argument, he said that Thursday coal sold in Chicago for $1 a ton carrying an 80-cent freight rate because the railroads were demanding the cars.

Mr. Mitchell, in reply, declared that he had shown by the circulars of the operators that coal is now selling at the mines at from 35 to 50 cents a ton higher than it was selling seven months ago, and that conditions were prosperous. The miners, he said, were asked to continue a lower wage scale than they had two years ago, which was accepted on the promise of the operators that the reduction would be restored at this conference.

Ties Up Anthracite Men.
President Mitchell regards the situation as the gravest that he has had to confront as the head of the organization. He expected to make an agreement here, the basis of his demands upon the anthracite operators in the coming conference, but he now feels that failure here is the forerunner of failure in the East, and that every coal miner must be prepared to quit work and make the fight for better conditions. He says the country is prosperous, and he believes the miners should have at least a small share of what every one else is enjoying. Of course, there is a possibility that better counsels will prevail between this and April 1, but if the present temper of the miners and operators is maintained a strike is inevitable, and a strike means the tying up of practically all the coal mines of the country.

Suspension of Mining.
The only possibility of avoiding a strike apparently rests in an appeal to President Roosevelt and the National Civic Federation to set in motion negotiations for a rehabilitation of the joint state agreement, but so far as known there is nothing upon which to base a belief that they will interfere in the dispute.

In an interview, President John Mitchell said:
"Never in the history of this country has a strike of such far-reaching effect been threatened. It means a national suspension of mining, and it includes the anthracite districts."

"Will this action of the miners have any effect on the meeting of the anthracite miners and operators on Feb. 15?"

"I don't know at this time," he said. "Well, you will meet the anthracite operators at that time."

"Yes," he replied, "that is the plan at this time, and no changes have been made in the plans."

According to the figures given out by the national officers of the miners' organization they expect the strike to bring out about 150,000 in the anthracite districts, 85,000 in the Pennsylvania, bituminous districts, 33,000 in Ohio, 17,000 in Indiana, 69,000 in Illinois, 16,000 in Iowa, 30,000 in West Virginia, 3,000 in Michigan and approximately 6,000 in Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Indian Territory and Arkansas.

Fire which started in the basement of the crockery store of J. F. W. Decker at Oshkosh, Wis., last night caused a loss of $10,000.

Fire yesterday destroyed the handsome barn of Hugh L. Smith, a prominent manufacturer at Jackson, Mich., burning two valuable coach horses to death, and causing a loss of $15,000.

Samuel Armstrong was instantly killed by falling under his wagon at Tompkins, Ill. It is feared the news will cause Mrs. Armstrong's death, she being unconscious since the accident.

The safe of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad at Mount Carroll, Ill., was blown open with dynamite yesterday. The robbers made away with $100 in silver and many railroad tickets.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, February 3, 1866.—The Weather.—Last night was very cold, the thermometer registering at sunrise this morning some ten degrees below zero. Notwithstanding the lateness at which the cold weather arrived we are likely to get a reasonable amount of it.

Dunn Brown in the Army.—Such is the title of a new book just from the press of Nichols and Noyes, and received by us from the publishers through Mr. Sutherland. Its typographical execution is very creditable to the company bringing it out. The contents of the work consist of a series of letters written in the army. Their style is most agreeable and fascinating, and while the stirring and bloody scenes among which these were written, have given place to the quiet pursuits of peace the pages of this book will nevertheless be pursued with an absorbing interest.

Shall We Not Send Him?—We understand that Mr. Locke of this city proposes to survey the ground between Lake Monic and Lake Winnebago, for the purpose of ascertaining which body of water is the highest, provided his expenses will be paid, he giving his whole time. Another gentleman of this place, we learn, is willing to accompany him at his own expense.

There ought not to be a minute's delay in procuring funds to close in with this generous offer. This information is of great importance, we trust will be obtained forthwith. Who will set the ball in motion?

The St. Paul Press on noticing a statement in the New York Times, that but five females had been hung in this country, says:

"A woman, Mrs. Milanski, convicted of having poisoned her husband, and afterwards identified with a Mrs. Simpson, who had run a career of husband poisoning, in Virginia, was hung in this city in 1861. We are somewhat curious to know whether this case is included in the four female executions noted by the Times. An immense popular pressure was brought to bear upon the then Executive, Governor, now Senator Ramsey, to commute the sentence of the laws because she was a woman, but it failed."

Female murderers almost always take life by stealthy, secret, silent agency of poisoning.

WILLIAM CANNON HOUSTON—CONGRESSMAN FROM TENNESSEE. William C. Houston was born in Bedford county, Tenn., March 27, 1832. He was reared on a farm, and obtained his education at Woodbury, Tenn. For two years he ran a country news paper. He was elected to the state legislature in 1876, and again in 1880 and 1882. In 1878 he was admitted to the bar. Mr. Houston was a member of the state democratic executive committee for four years; chairman of the state convention in 1888; elected in 1888; circuit judge in 1894 and 1902. He has a wife and five sons.

So the groundhog saw his shadow, whereas he was exceedingly wrathful and went back to sleep.

Miss Sprung has gone back into her winter home, while her big brother Winter holds sway and rules the world with an icy grip.

Janesville has had its share of good stage productions this winter, better than even Madison or any other city in the state outside of Milwaukee.

The establishment of a factory employing seventy-five men to start with will help boom Janesville more than the lead mines in the western portion of the state ever will.

Now is the time for persons who are really interested in Janesville and its future to show it by helping the establishment of the watch factory here. Such a factory would be worth a dozen small ones.

Evidently the appointment of Mr. Fisher did not please the editor of the Beloit Daily News, from the kind words he has to say. Perhaps Governor Davidson will find others are not pleased when it comes to the primaries next fall. But this is a political world and the position of district attorney of Rock county is of state importance, it would seem.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"The Dawn of a Tomorrow" is the title of a little two-part story by Frances Hodgson Burnett, which runs through the December and January "Scribners".

The story is cast in "Apple Blossom Court," a section of the slums of London, and the principal characters are Antony Dart, an English lord of wealth, who is rescued from a mania to commit suicide by "Glad," a girl of 14 and a vagabond of the street.

She takes him to "Apple Blossom Court," where poverty and suffering abound, and introduces him to Jenny Montaubyn, a crippled old woman who had been redeemed from a life of degradation through the influence of a lady at the hospital where she had been an inmate the year before. Jenny Montaubyn, a girl of 14 and a vagabond of the street.

She had a few passages of scripture which she interpreted literally, and when she said, "Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth," she was talking to a personal God, and she accepted as an answer anything that came in the way of temporal relief.

She didn't worry about the hereafter. What she wanted, and what "Apple Blossom Court" needed was help, here and now, and her faith claimed the practical promises.

"Glad," the street waif, was a great admirer of Jenny Montaubyn and she was trying hard to adopt her faith. In talking to Antony Dart about her, Dart said:

"Is it a kind of religion she has?"

To which Glad replied:

"It's cheerier. There's no 'ell fire' in it, and there ain't no blame laid on Godamighty."

Then by way of illustration she said:

"When a dray ran over little Billy an' crushed him inter a rag, an' his mother was screamin' an' draggin' her fair down, the Curick 'e ses, 'Tis Gawd's will, 'e ses, 'an' 'e ain't no bad sort neither, and his face was white and wet with sweat. 'Tis Gawd done it, 'e ses. An' me, I'd nursed the child an' I clawed me 'air same as if I was 'is mother an' I screamed out, 'Then damn 'im.'"

The Curick, of course, was shocked, but "Glad" reinforced her statement by saying:

"Miss Montaubyn says Godamighty never done it nor never intended it, an' if we keep sayin' 'e's believin' 'e's close to use, an' not millions of miles away, we'd be took care of whilst we was alive an' not have to wait till we was dead. Godamighty now, there ain't a bit of 'arm in 'im. He never done the accidents and the trouble. It was out of the light into the dark."

"It's what you can work on this," said Glad. "The Curick, 'e's a good sort an' no 'arm in 'im. 'e ses: 'Trouble and 'unger is to teach yer to submit. Accidents an' coughs as tears yer lungs is sent you to prepare yer for 'eaven. If yer loves 'im as sent 'em, yer'll go there."

"Ave yer ever been," ses I, 'ave yer ever saw anyone that's bin?' 'ave yer ever saw any one that's saw any one that's bin?"

"No," he ses. "Don't, my girl, don't."

"Garn, I ses, 'tell me somethin' as 'll do me some good afore I'm dead. 'Even is too far off,' and Miss Montaubyn added: 'Yes, the kingdom of heaven is at hand. 'Bless yer, yes just 'ere.'"

This was the theology of Jennie Montaubyn, the redeemed outcast of "Apple Blossom Court," and it is the sort of practical common sense theology that the world is suffering for today.

The realm of the stars is a distant realm and the fairy tales of a God whose dwelling place is in a heaven beyond the stars, has long since ceased to fascinate or satisfy.

Telling humanity, struggling for a foothold and existence, spends but little time in star gazing, or speculating about a life in a kingdom so remote.

The battle of life is on, and the arena, where the contest is waged, is so intensely real that every energy is taxed to the utmost.

The life beyond is a matter of simple faith and trust, but the life of today is full of sweat and toil, beset by failure and discouragement and if humanity ever needs a helping hand it needs it now.

Jennie Montaubyn made the discovery that God was a constant guest in her humble home. She talked to Him as to a friend and when she asked a favor which was granted by some human hand, she regarded it as an answer to prayer.

Her faith was sublime, but not mysterious. She simply comprehended a few great truths, and applied them in common sense ways.

The Curate of the parish, who came to teach her, sat at her feet and marveled at the strength and sublimity of her faith.

There is no mystery about death. It is the tribute which all life pays for the privilege of living. But the life of the here, and now is full of mystery and many of its problems are so difficult that discouragement and despair frequently confront the traveler. The teacher, whether of high or low degree, who helps to make the rough places smooth, and brings to the life of the toiler a God who is so personal and so real that His presence is recognized in every avenue of life, is the teacher whose theology rings true.

PRESS COMMENT.

Pertinent or Impertinent? Evening Wisconsin: "How would you like to be the ice man?"

Next Joint Statehood Scheme. Madison Democrat: The next case of joint statehood will probably be Alaska and Hawaii, if the insurgents are willing.

With Long Oblivion Gone Dry. Devalian Enterprise: A Beloit woman is the proud possessor of a washboard over one hundred years old. Washboards never wear out in Beloit.

Dog-gone Mean. Oshkosh Northwestern: At the same time it is a doubtful compliment to publish the picture of Representative Longworth along with that pet dog of Miss Roosevelt's.

Disclaimed by the Craft. La Crosse Leader Press: There are no newspaper men on the staff of Town Topics. The crew on that nasty sheet was made up of society young men and broken down business men.

Calculated to Raise Doubts. Green Bay Gazette: An agreement between Senators Spooner and La Follette over the division of patronage will be calculated to raise doubts in the minds of adherents of both.

But Boat-owners Go Free. Exchange: The captain of the ill-fated excursion steamer Mlocum "got his" in the shape of a sentence of ten years in prison. But the public still insists that the owners of the boat should not be permitted to escape.

Strange, Strange Year! Chicago Record-Herald: People have been dying in Mexico of the cold, while up in Maine the oldest inhabitant confesses that he never knew of such a balmy winter. It is a strange year, but winter over nature's ways does not interfere with a satisfied contemplation of the coal pile.

Tent Colony for Consumptives. Evening Wisconsin: The tent colony for consumptives planned by the physicians of Beloit and Rockford suggests a method of open-air treatment that can be introduced promptly and with comparatively little cost. A sheltered camp for sleeping, with a central dining room with sun-parlor attached would make a complete sanitarium.

Young Physicians in a Hurry. Beloit Free Press: It is reported that the medical association composed of the physicians of Menominee and Marinette, at its recent meeting adopted a resolution endorsing the Osier proposition of chloroforming all persons over 60, as well as incurables, and there is a great sensation in the twin cities as a consequence. Probably the association is composed largely of young doctors who are anxious to get into the shoes of the old practitioners in those cities.

Woman and the Wretch—Man. Milwaukee Free Press: A Chicago man sued his wife for divorce because she refused to put a mustard plaster on his side which had a "kink" in it. The poor woman made defense that she was going out at the time, and could only prepare the plaster, leaving her husband to place it. Why she should have made any defense at all, when she was being given a chance to get shut of such a man, is one of the puzzling things about that greatest of all puzzles, woman. She was probably on her way to the club, and was late.

Read this Modern Parable. Fond du Lac Bulletin: Here is a word painting that is so perfect, so life like, that it should have a place at every side. It is taken from the Atchison Globe, a paper that is as much quoted from as any paper in the West, and it is quoted from because it talks so much on questions of human interest. This is the picture: Give it a square look.

Once upon a time a man married a woman who had inherited $500 from a grandfather. This was all she ever received, but the man never got credit for his efforts, the rest of his life. He built a new store. "Did it with his wife's money," the neighbors said. The home was made over and enlarged. "His wife's money did it," was the only comment. The little mealy $500 she inherited was given the credit for everything he did during his life, and when he died and his widow put up the monument with his life insurance, "Her money paid for that," was said again. But this is really what her money went for: During her engagement she bought herself a $250 piano, and a $150 diamond ring, and in a few weeks lost the ring and there was always some regret that she didn't lose the piano.

Snubbed the Gambler. Milwaukee Sentinel: And now they are telling how John W. Gates "called down" a gambler who presumed to address him in the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. Gates, it seems, knows the gambler, only not in public places. In the latter's gambling house he can be affable, even familiar, with the proprietor, but outside or in public they must not speak as they pass by. That is Mr. Gates' code of ethics for gamblers, and lately expounded by him when the one in question had the adamant cheek to sing out to him, "Hello, John!" in the hotel corridor. Thus hailed, the only John replied with great moral dignity:

"Sir, you have been a gambler many years, but you seem to have failed to learn one thing that every gambler ought to know. That is, never speak to a gentleman unless the gentleman speaks to you. In the social-grade gamblers are classed with fallen women. If I choose to visit an establishment conducted by you that is my private affair, and you must not presume on it. If I elect to recognize you in any public place, all well and good."

That ought to hold at least one gambler for a while. But the question naturally arises, if Mr. Gates has such a low and contemptuous opinion of the class he ranks socially with harlots and their parasites, why does he gamble? But perhaps he meant professional gamblers only. There is such a vast difference "twixt tweedle-dum and tweedledee."

WILTON LACKAYE IN HIS DRESSING ROOM

Refuses To Pass on Varied Pronunciations of His Name, But Valet Calls Him "Mr. Lak—"

Off the stage, Wilton Lackaye, who made his first appearance in Janesville this afternoon in the dramatization of Frank Norris' stirring novel, "The Pit," is a very affable gentleman and interesting conversationalist. He has very positive opinions on almost every subject that is mentioned from politics to literature. He thinks, for instance, that the only hope of this country lies in the retirement of the republican party and so expressed himself with forceful argument to a representative of the Gazette this afternoon. He holds John D. Rockefeller as good and generous and praiseworthy a citizen as the late Marshall Field and says that the latter, who made the bulk of his fortune by the same methods as Rockefeller, was higher in the regard of the public mainly because he purchased large advertising space in the newspapers.

Most gatherings of humanity including college students are "mobs" to Mr. Lackaye. "If a theatrical troupe should cut loose the way I've seen some Christian Endeavor excursionists do, it would be 'out on the train,'" he says with conviction.

With regard to "The Pit," he says that the melodrama follows quite closely the story of the book though it was necessary to idealize some of the characters. Laura, for instance, in love with three men and not sure of which one she wanted, would never do on the stage. Nor would it do for her to be in the arms of the artist in the last scene, when her husband comes home from the wheat pit, broken and ruined. That might do in novels, according to Mr. Lackaye, but audiences would never have it on the stage.

All these opinions were passed by this interesting personage and gifted actor while he was putting on the grease paint in his dressing room this afternoon. He also talked about his new dramatization of Hugo's "Les Miserables" which is to be put on next fall under the title of "The Law and the Man." The task of Lackaye as an adequate play from this great three-volume novel is a very difficult one and Mr. Lackaye says the "trick" is something the same as that employed by the schoolgirl in reading the book—skipping all the digressions and essays, and following only the actual movements of Jean Valjean, Cosette, Javert, and the others.

WOOL MARKET DROPS IN PAST FEW DAYS

New York and Michigan Feeding Lambs Have Been Shorn, and Their Wool Held at 28 Cents.

(By Elmer Bullard.)

Evansville, Wis., Feb. 2.—The mutton market has had a bad break in the last ten days, and it is freely predicted that the 8c lambs are among the past, but even at 7c it is a good paying investment. The wool market is exceptionally dull, and the business outlook poor. Would not be surprised to see straight 7c selling at 30c at the market centers. 7 1/2 and 8c blood are still fairly firm at 32 to 33c. These prices are for the straight as reported grades of combing wools. Reports from New York state and Michigan are that a few bunches of feeding lambs have been shorn, and the owners are asking 25c for the wool, but, as yet, have no buyers.

SISTER CATHERINE DIES IN MILWAUKEE

Aunt of Janesville Man Dies After a Long Life in a Milwaukee Convent.

Venerable Sister Catherine, O. M. C. of late mother superior at the St. Ann's orphanage, St. Francis, died Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock a. m. in Milwaukee. Sister Catherine was an aunt of Joseph, Isaac, James, John and Edward Connor of James Murphy, of the town of Janesville. Joseph and Isaac left last evening to attend the funeral, which was held at the convent chapel in Milwaukee this morning at nine. Very Rev. N. Kershon officiated and Right Rev. Mgr. Joseph Rainer, vicar general, delivered the sermon. The interment was at the cemetery of the seminary known as "the cemetery near the chapel in the woods," at the side of the former deceased superior general.

She had been at the head of the orphanage for the last seven years, prior to which she was superior in charge at the Plo. Nonne college, at the same time assisting in the affairs at the convent close by in the capacity of a mother assistant, which office she held for the last seventeen years. Sister Catherine had been much admired in her work among the poor orphans by all who came in contact with her.

Another Catherine was known in the world by the name of Joanna Murphy. She was born March 14, 1844, in Ireland, and emigrated to America with her parents and lived prior to her admission into religious life at Janesville, where relatives are still living. In 1864 she entered into the convent of the Franciscan sisters at St. Francis and was received as a novice in the year 1865, since which she worked zealously in the community at one or the other institutions at St. Francis.

Society..

In the rush of the next twenty-four days before Lent comes Janesville promises to be very gay. Card parties, five o'clock teas, musicals, a few dancing parties, and two receptions are known to be scheduled. For the past three weeks an innovation in amusement has relieved the ennui of the continual round of card parties. On the opening night but few of the guests present could safely use the elusive rollers, but constant practice in the afternoon has made many of them experts. Three evenings and almost every afternoon the society buds have skated to their hearts' content. On Friday the affair culminated in a "Roller skating luncheon." It was a complete success and some of the more mature matrons who do not skate, but enjoy watching others, spent a very enjoyable hour while the younger members skated. On Thursday evening the rink was filled and many of those present caused amusement for the spectators by their frequent tumbles. Another feature of the social life particularly prominent this winter are the literary and musical clubs. The Apollo Club and the Schumann club represent the musical end of the work, while the Art League, The O. E. S. Study club, the Twentieth Century Literary Club and the Daughters of the American Revolution represent the literary inclined. Manager Myers of the Myers Grand has also added to the society events of the winter by his excellent line of theatrical attractions. His bookings for the near future, including Wilton Lackaye tonight, "Babes in Toyland" and Grace George fill the spaces left vacant by social gatherings. His prospective engagement of Sarah Bernhardt is still undecided. The Twilight club, the Social Union and the different church men's societies have made place for the male members of the community and should perhaps be classed among the literary clubs.

On Monday evening next, the regular musicale of The Apollo Club will be held at Library Hall. The program is under the direction of Professor J. S. Taylor and is arranged in ten numbers, as follows:

Madrigal Club. Parker. Mrs. C. F. Knef, Mrs. J. S. Taylor. There was a Little Man. Hadley. Madrigal Club. Smith. (a) The Quest. (b) I Love You. Grieg. Overture to Shakespeare's "Tempest." Tomorrow afternoon the directors of the Golf Club will meet at Baker's drugstore to discuss the advisability of giving a benefit in the form of a masquerade at the roller skating rink on Tuesday evening, February 27, the night before Ash Wednesday, which ushers in the lenten season.

AWAITING REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

Subscription Papers for Stock for Clock Factory Will Be Asked for Very Soon.

If the project for establishing the proposed clock factory in Janesville is to be successful the business men of the city must come to the front. There is eighteen thousand dollars to be raised and the subscription lists will be passed out for signatures within a few days. In order that the stability of the concern in question be fully understood by the prospective stock holders a committee of two leave tomorrow to investigate their factory and financial standing and if their report is satisfactory the subscription papers will be passed and it is hoped liberally signed. It is in the nature of a safe investment which is worth considering. It means the establishment in Janesville of at least twenty-five more families at once and the employment of seventy hands to begin with. If the business increases it will be but a short time before it will employ as many as a hundred and fifty hands.

Buried in Favorite Work Basket. In accordance with her will, Mrs. Constance Miller of New Rochelle, N. Y., was cremated, her ashes placed in a work basket, of which she had been fond, and then buried in her own yard.

TOBACCO PRICES ARE INCREASING SHARPLY

The Nineteen Five Crop is Being Delivered—Prices Are Good—Prospects Better.

The 1905 crop is coming to the warehouses in such satisfactory packing condition and so free from damage that the work of assorting and sizing the leaf is much more expeditiously done than in some previous years, says the Edgerton Tobacco Journal. As a result the warehouse help is able to make unusually good wages for table work. Some of the expert handlers are putting out better than a ton per week, and the general range of wages is higher than other seasons. Although the leaf is remarkably light and thin, requiring the handling of greater bulk, the soundness and size of the leaf more than makes up for these conditions and the assorting is more rapidly done than in other years. In the grading long lengths prevail showing a crop of unusual large growth. From 13 to 15 per cent of the crop, however, is running to filler grades. But the fillers are sounder and of a better quality than for several years past and the general impression is that they will remain sound in passing through the curing process. The fillers of the present crop, however, are held by a very few concerns and farmers' fillers were never before quoted at such figures as are now offered for this grade "not under contract."

The sharp advance in the price of tobacco since the buying season opened is responsible for a whole lot of entanglements regarding the delivery of purchases which the courts will be called upon to decide in the next few months. The question to be settled in most cases is the right of a tenant to dispose of the whole crop raised by him or the right of the land owner, the other party at interest, to do the same. Where the buyers did not secure the names of both parties to the contract and the party not signing has taken the liberty to sell the crop at higher figures, what has occasioned most of the trouble. Suits have already been started and when the law of proprietor and tenant is more fully established by the courts there ought to be less difficulty in the future in this matter. So long as the tobacco dealers insist upon buying the crop six months in advance of the time of delivery they must assume a good many chances for trouble and litigation. But the law will straighten them out in the due course of time and it will be better for all parties to know their rights.

Packers are everywhere receiving the crop as fast as it is possible to care for it at storage points and yet unable to meet the demands of growers for immediate delivery. The pressure of farmers to be first on the list is greater than ever before and the large buyers are fairly swamped with bundle leaf and taxing the transportation facilities to warehouse points at some places beyond their limits. Something like 60 carloads have been received in this market from outlying points during the week. John Soulmans received 5 cars at Windsor last week. A 11-acre crop of S. E. Anderson brought him $2151.90 and a 9-acre crop of Ole Westby, $1417.67, illustrating that some exceptionally good returns are being obtained.

One of the few lots of old leaf remaining in first hands in this section was marketed this week. The Hardwick Bros. sold 88cs. of '01 to George Decker at a price close to 15 cents marked. H. T. Sweeney sold 375 cases of '04 to Julius Marquardt. Warehouse handling in this market is now running smoothly with an aggregate weekly payroll of about $10,000. The shipments out of storage reach 1222 cases, 24 carloads, from this market to all points for the week.

RAILROAD BILL AGREED UPON

Feb. 16 Will Bring Report on Measure by Senate Committee.

EXPOSE LIGHTS AND SHADOWS

One Representative Sees Much Good to Shippers From Publicity, While Another Predicts That Chicago Will Sink Into Marshes.

Washington, Feb. 3.—A railroad rate regulating bill will be agreed upon by the senate inter-state commerce committee Feb. 16. This decision is gratifying to the friends of the proposed legislation as removing another obstacle.

At the last session of congress this committee was authorized to sit during the recess, and was expected to accumulate enough information to report a bill to the senate before the Christmas holidays. Hearings were held and four volumes of testimony taken, but the strength of the opponents of rate legislation is shown by crafty and successful methods they have adopted to prevent a bill being reported.

The house without any preliminary preparation will pass a bill before the senate committee reaches the point of assembling for the serious purpose of agreeing upon one. In fact, it is intended to make the bill, which the house will pass, the basis of the bill which the senate committee will recommend.

Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts and Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, two of the most recent accessions to the senate, completed the task begun by Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island of bringing about a better understanding and a possible compromise between the president and the senate on the rate bill.

President Yields.
There is good reason for the statement that there will now be an agreement between the president and the senate under which Mr. Roosevelt will cease to stand for the Hepburn bill without amendment and will consent to a provision giving the railroads and shippers not connected with any original complaint the right to have reviewed by the courts a rate made by the commission.

Senator Aldrich, a member of the committee, and other members who have been opposing the administration bill say the bill which will be reported will be acceptable to a majority of the republican members of the committee. Those familiar with the situation interpret this announcement as meaning that the opponents of the reforms endorsed by the president believe they will obtain a compromise.

Two speeches were delivered in the house Friday which will attract wide attention, one coming from a staunch advocate of the regulation but only of railroads but all corporations, and the other from an opponent of the railroad bill. Both being looked upon as leaders in the house their speeches received more attention from members on the floor than accorded any other representatives who have spoken so far.

Publicity and Regulation.
Mr. Burton of Ohio delivered an exceptionally strong appeal for publicity and regulation. He said there are other things in life more precious than the accumulation of wealth, and that great offenses as well as small ones should be punished. The control of corporations, a work hardly begun in the states, will be continued and perfected until not only railroads but all corporations will be an open book, and their affairs will be known by stockholders and the inquiring public.

"We are doing much for the railroads in this bill," he declared, "and we can do much more. We must have the same publicity with regard to these large corporations, as we now insist upon in our control of national banks. It is a question with me whether a development less rapid, especially a development in which there shall be greater equality, is not better than present conditions."

Representative McCall of Massachusetts, one of the few members to oppose the bill, drew a dark picture of conditions which he said would follow the passage of a law permitting the interstate commerce commission to fix reasonable rates. As a lawyer he cited decisions and referred to the experience in foreign countries where government supervision of rates prevails to sustain his argument that the commission would be forced to decisions fixing rates for wide areas upon a basis of distance, which would result in numerous cities being named either disappearing from the map or becoming villages.

He suggested that the commission might "make Chicago sink back into the marshes from which it sprung." He was particularly bitter in his denunciation of members who listen to public clamor and are responsive to the demands of their constituents for railroad rate legislation when they must know that its effects would be more harmful than beneficial.

ALLEGES TAX DODGING.

National City Bank is Accused of Indulging in Sharp Practice.
Washington, Feb. 3.—Methods of the National City bank of New York were called into question Friday by Representative Sulzer, who introduced a resolution in the house calling upon the attorney general for information as to when the government executed to the bank the deed for the old custom house property in Wall street, where the deed is, and why it was not.

er been recorded," Mr. Sulzer said. The bank was dodging taxes, and charged that the sale of the property was scandalous, alleging that it was worth $100,000, while it was sold for $3,265,000, part of which has not been paid. The resolution is the result of the attempt of City Comptroller Metz of New York to collect $500,000 taxes on the property. The sale was conducted in 1899. All but $50,000 of the purchase price was paid, the remainder being held back with the understanding that it should be paid when the government moved into its new building and gave possession of the old. Since the sale the government has been paying the bank $130,000 a year rental. Comptroller Metz declares the withholding of $50,000 was simply a device to escape taxation, as the property can not be taxed as long as it stands in the name of the government.

SHIP SUBSIDY.

Senator Patterson Criticizes Plan to Give Bonus to Oceanic Company.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The shipping bill was vigorously attacked by Senator Patterson Friday. He criticized the provision for a subsidy to the Oceanic Steamship company, plying on the Pacific, and declared that the vessel owners had "the most persistent and successful lobbyists that gather at the national capital." As to the Oceanic company, the Colorado senator was of the opinion that it already is receiving all it is entitled to from the public treasury and the proposed subsidy of $300,000 a year practically doubled the award. He said the country had been more generous to those engaged in going down to sea in ships than to other industries, and instanced the protection given the coastwise trade. Mr. Galt, a member of the committee, characterized the speech as "remarkable," and declared that Mr. Patterson was the first man to find fault with the protection given to American vessels in the coastwise and lake business. He declared that if congress did not come promptly to the support of the Oceanic company, it would be forced by the heavily subsidized Japanese vessels to go under a foreign flag, as it was losing from $200,000 to $300,000 a year. On motion of Mr. Gallinger the bill was amended by striking out the provision prohibiting vessels from receiving subsidies for more than ten years.

Senate Confirmations.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The senate confirmed the nominations of Brigadier General George B. Davis to be judge advocate general, Brigadier General William Crozier to be chief of ordnance, Captain Charles H. Stockton to be a rear admiral in the navy and George M. Hotschick of Wisconsin to be consul at Trieste, Austria.

Philadelphia Postmaster.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The question of the selection of a postmaster at Philadelphia to succeed Col. Clayton McMichael was disposed of by the appointment of Richard L. Ashurst.

Survey for Deep Harbor.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The senate passed the bill authorizing a survey for a deep harbor in Lake county, Indiana.

Asphalt Row.

Washington, Feb. 3.—W. J. Calhoun, the president's special commissioner to Venezuela in the asphalt controversy, has been summoned to Washington. Minister Russell at Caracas is to be directed again to lay the claims of the New York and Bermudez Asphalt company before the Venezuelan government, but in doing so he will not support certain of the company's contentions and claims which were strongly urged by Minister Bowen by direction of the State Department more than a year ago.

ILLINOIS SOCIETY DINES IN GOTHAM THIS EVENING

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Feb. 3.—There will be a notable gathering at the Waldorf Astoria tonight on the occasion of the banquet to be given in honor of ex-Secretary Lyman J. Gage by the Illinois Society of New York. Responses to toasts will be made by Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, of the House of Representatives; Elbert H. Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation; General Frederick D. Grant, U. S. A.; United States Senator Albert J. Hopkins, of Illinois; Charles Emory Smith, ex-postmaster general of the United States; and James H. Eckels, former comptroller of the currency.

Texas Pecan Orchards.

Texas is the greatest pecan-growing section in the world. Pecans are a valuable food product. Cultivation of pecans is a profitable industry; the trees in many orchards being valued at $100 each. Experts declare the crop will pay more in proportion to the care given and money invested than any other crop. There are pecan orchards in Texas more than 1,000 acres in extent, and even larger ones are to be created. —Dallas News.

Etiquette and Courtesy.

"Etiquette is a mask, a barrier, a cloak, a disguise, a pretense, a lie; it enables us to hide our real characters from each other. It is acquired; it comes from the head; courtesy is spontaneous; it comes from the heart. The first has as much in common with the second as has law with justice, medicine with hygiene or theology with sanctity." —Portland Oregonian.

Philosopher's Answer.

Thales, the ancient philosopher, declared that there was no difference between life and death. "Why, then," cried one of those to whom the remark was made, "don't you put an end to your life?" "Because," was the reply, "there is no difference."

Truly wonderfully—a little want ad.

TIDAL WAVE DESTROYS CITY OF BUENA VENTURA

Submarine Volcano May Have Been
Cause of Unusual Upheaval in Port of Colombia.

Panama, Feb. 3.—Reports are current here that an ocean tidal wave visited Buena Ventura, in Colombia, Wednesday, Jan. 31, and that the city was destroyed. The tidal wave is said to have been caused by either an earthquake or some volcanic disturbance.

It is impossible at this time to confirm the rumors, owing to the fact that cable communication with Buena Ventura is interrupted. Tests made here show that the cable is broken in two places north and south of Buena Ventura.

It is possible that a submarine volcano or wave created by an earthquake may have caused the serious disturbances at Buena Ventura, Tumaco and the smaller ports, judging from the phenomenally rapid tide movements here recently. Capt. Holroyd of the English steamer Quilo, which left Friday morning for Guayaquil and other ports, was ordered to keep well off the coast and to maintain a strict watch for the unusual changes reported from Buena Ventura.

COLLEGE IS SIXTY YEARS OLD

Beloit Institution Celebrates the Anniversary of Its Charter.

Beloit, Wis., Feb. 3.—The sixtieth anniversary of the granting of the charter by the state legislature to Beloit college was commemorated Friday at the college chapel when Prof. R. C. Chapin, son of one of the founders and first president of the college, Aaron Chapin, gave an address telling of the history of the charter. It was fashioned after the eastern colleges, but owing to the dread of "sectarian instruction" the bill was not passed without amendment and some opposition and the privileges of the school were then but local. The sixteen men who signed the charter were Rev. A. Kent, D. Clary, S. Peet, F. Bascom, C. Waterbury, J. D. Stevens, A. L. Chapin, R. M. Pearson and Messrs. G. W. Hilcox, A. Raymond, C. M. Goodsell, E. W. Potter, L. G. Fisher, W. Talcott, Charles S. Hempstead and Samuel Hinman.

EGG SLUMP RUINS INDIANA FIRM

Produce Company Which Put Up Cold Storage Product Fails.

Seymour, Ind., Feb. 3.—The failure of F. H. Hadley & Co., buyers and shippers of poultry and produce, with branches at Scottsburg, Bedford and Bloomington, was announced Friday. The liabilities are estimated at $100,000, with assets of $75,000. It is stated that the failure was caused by the declining market in cold storage eggs. The open winter has brought fresh eggs into the market and the cold storage product has declined.

STATE MAY QUIT LIQUOR TRADE

South Carolina Representatives Vote for County Option.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 3.—The house of representatives has passed the Morgan dispensary bill by a vote of 53 to 47. This is considered to be the most significant legislation in this state for many years, and it is believed the senate also will pass the measure. The bill abolishes the state dispensary and provides for state prohibition, with local option to counties.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 3.—William J. Woodside and R. E. S. Desmidt, charged with violating a federal law in fitting out the ship Carmichael on an illegal sealing expedition, have been found guilty. The jury disagreed regarding Robert Tyson.
